

Future Wheel

This tool helps you explore a variety of direct and indirect consequences that may emerge from trends. In the centre write down the signal that is of interest and the focus of your topic. Then ideate the consequences of the trend that might emerge (in relation to the topic) and expand outward considering the implications of those consequences.

Initial iterations of this activity should be about ideating lots of alternatives, later versions might be more synthesised by grouping and organising the likely outcomes of a trend.
